TIME CORRECTION

According to Terry Jeffers, Songfest publicity chairman, Songfest finals will begin at 7:30 p.m. instead of 7 p.m. as reported in the Daily Universe Thursday. The finals will be in the Smith Fieldhouse.

BYU Stakes To Be Reorganized Sunday

Two new stakes of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will be organized at BYU Sunday, bringing the total stakes on campus to eight.

Elder Howard W. Hunter of the Council of Twelve and Elder A. Theodore Tuttle, member of the first Council of Seventy, will preside at the combined conference of the six BYU stakes in the Smith Fieldhouse at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

President William R. Siddoway of the BYU Fourth Stake will conduct the services.

The two new stakes are being formed to accommodate the growth at BYU. Although the student body next year will remain at the present level of 20,000, the 67 current wards on campus are crowded and the stakes are too large. Some of them contain as many as 14 wards. It is expected that some new wards will be created, boundaries realigned, and some current wards shifted to the new stakes.

Elder Hunter was a prominent Southern California corporation lawyer and businessman before his call to the apostleship in 1959. He is director of several large industrial, real estate and insurance corporations in California and Utah. He has served the Church as a Boy Scout leader and welfare administrator.

Elder Tuttle, an educator, has devoted most of his life to teaching the youth of the Church. He was an administrator and instructor in the Church schools before being called to the First Council of Seventy.

Elder Tuttle also administered the five South American missions of the Church.

Closed circuit television is being provided in the Joseph Smith auditorium for both sessions of conference.

Elder Thomas Monson Speaks At Graduation

Elder Thomas S. Monson, member of the Council of Twelve of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will give the commencement address at Brigham Young University May 26, announced Thursday BYU President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

The academic procession, with graduates, faculty, Board of Trustees, and guests in caps and gowns will begin at 8:50 a.m. and proceed from the north quad down the hillside to the Smith Fieldhouse, where services will begin at 9:30 a.m.

No baccalaureate services will be held. Honorary degrees and special awards will be conferred at the commencement exercises. The graduates will receive their diplomas in convocations of the Graduate School at 5 p.m. and the 13 academic colleges at 7:30 p.m.

Other events will include a business meeting and luncheon of the Emeritus Club. The President's reception for graduates, their friends and families, faculty, and alumni will be in the President's garden from 2 to 4 p.m. Graduating Air Force ROTC cadets will be commissioned in exercises at 4 p.m. in 347 Wilkinson Center.

Elder Monson was named to the Council of Twelve Apostles Oct. 4, 1963. He has formerly served as president of the Canadian Mission from 1959 to 1962, in the presidency of the Temple View Stake in Salt Lake City, and as a bishop in that stake.

Elder Thomas S. Monson

He is a 1948 graduate of the University of Utah and served in the U. S. Navy during World War II.

After receiving his degree in business, Elder Monson became associated with the Deseret News, Church-owned newspaper in Salt Lake City. He later became associated with the Deseret News Press, a commercial printing company, and served as manager of that firm until shortly after his appointment to the Council of the Twelve.

Elder Monson has held membership in the Utah Association of Sales Executives and the Salt Lake Advertising Club. He is a past president of the Printing Industry of Utah and a former member of the Board of Directors of the Printing Industry of America. He is also a director of the Deseret News Publishing Co.

"A Dawn In The Forest..."

Pageant Covers Long History

By Brent Clement
Universe Staff Writer

"A Dawn in the Forest," an Indian pageant covering more than 1000 years of history was performed Wednesday night in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

The pageant, written by Kirt M. Olson and directed by John Shepherd, featured an all-Indian cast, including six Xochiquetzal-Aztec dancers from Southern Mexico and the 66-member Sherman Institute All Indian Chorus from Riverside, Calif.

The pageant depicts the restoration of the gospel to the Indian people, labeled by early Church leaders as the "Children of the Forest."

MISSIONARIES

The play is a heart-warming story of the visit and affect that five missionaries of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints had on the life of Quintana, a Delaware princess, played by Arlene Nofchissey and Millie Chestnut.

In 1831, Oliver Cowdery, Parley P. Pratt, and Fredrick G. Williams, missionaries for The Church, trekked 1600 miles to Indian Territory to deliver a Book of Mormon to the tribe of Chief Anderson, Quintana's father, played by Lacey Harris.

Music from the pageant was composed by Louis W. Ballard, a full-blooded Indian from the Institute of American Indian Arts, Santa Fe, New Mexico. He is acclaimed as the top composer of Indian music in the world today.

Leading roles in the pageant were played by Lacey Harris as Chief Anderson, Arlene Nofchissey and Millie Chestnut as Quintana, August Berning as Oliver Cowdery, Beaver Lester as Samuel, Robert Casas as Montezuma, Herman Brezuela as Runner, and Howard Hall as The Lord.

A final performance will be held tonight at 8:15 in the Smith Auditorium. Tickets will be $1.50 each, while students with activity cards will be admitted free.

Blood Drive Successful

The semi annual blood drive at BYU ended Thursday with a total accumulation of 754 pints of blood. According to Janis Stout, co-chairman of the blood drive, the drive reached its quota which was set at 600 to 800 pints.

Dallas Christensen, Red Cross Blood Mobile Chairman said he was pleased with the turnout.

Last spring's blood drive collected 1074 pints.

Votes for the various organizations that competed in the drive have not been tallied yet.

Letter To The Editor

BYU HOSPITALITY

Editor:

I thought the students of BYU would like to know about the courtesy and hospitality displayed to guests of our school. Wednesday and Thursday the Ricks College Band was here to play a concert with the BYU Band. Two of our guests wanted to go to the Varsity Theatre. They didn't have their activity cards with them so they were told they couldn't buy tickets. I explained to the cashier that they were here with the Ricks College Band (they were wearing band blazers). I was told they still couldn't purchase tickets. Fortunately I found out a little earlier that we could bring a guest with our activity cards so I patched up the situation.

I realize that rules are necessary to protect the rights and privileges of students in respect to the activities that are paid for by our tuition, but is it hospitable to exclude guests (especially from our sister institution to the north) from participating in a little recreation and fun?

But to continue: Friday and Saturday we were guests of the Ricks Band. Friday night we used their games facilities, and bought tickets to the campus movie. On Saturday we rented tandem bicycles. Not once was there a question about the use of their facilities.

I think it is about time that BYU, a good Christian University, practices what it teaches. I also think that it is about time that we start living the Law of Christ instead of the Law of Moses.

'Antigone' Is Attraction At University Cinema

Sophocles' "Antigone" is being presented through Saturday in a film version at the University Cinema, 184 Jesse Knight Bldg., 5:30 and 7:30 p.m.

The film, a faithful reproduction of the play, stars Irene Papas, in an excellent and expressive portrayal of Oedipus' daughter, Antigone.

The films begins after Antigone's two brothers have killed each other in battle. Creon, king of Thebes, buries Eteocles honorably, but issues a royal order that Polynices is not to be buried. In spite of the order, Antigone, who is engaged to Creon's son, Haimon, buries her brother, is caught, and sentenced to death. She is locked into a cave to die.

The prophet Teires convinces Creon that he has been wrong. Creon has Polynices' body burned, but as he arrives to free Antigone he finds that she has hanged herself. His bitter grief-stricken son kills himself also. The queen, upon hearing that her son is dead, stabs herself to death, and Creon is left alone.

The actors speak Greek, but the film has English subtitles which are sometimes hard to read.

In general, it is an excellent production, and though slow-moving at first, gradually picks up speed. A general knowledge of the play would be beneficial, since the film lacks transition and is sometimes hard to follow.

Graduate Students Schedule Presentation Of Airline Study

Three second-year MBA graduate students will present a study recently made of the supplemental airline industry at 9:30 a.m.

Friday in 357 Wilkinson Center.

The presentation, entitled "Cloud-Bound Full Comfort Service at Half the Normal Fare: A Selective View of the Charter Airline Industry," is open to the public.

Arvid L. Mortensen, David N. Moore, and William J. Owens, as members of a Master of Business Administration team, have reviewed the supplemental airline industry since last May.

They have written a formal paper discussing their findings and the Friday presentation will illustrate the highlights of this report. Dr. E. L. Christensen is directing professor of the group.

Business Seminar Has Guest

The second annual Stratford Seminar, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Stratford of Los Angeles and the BYU College of Business, was held at BYU Thursday.

Guest lecturer was Dr. Norton M. Bedford, professor of accountancy, University of Illinois, who spoke on "Human Communications Systems."

At the seminar, Dr. Bedford was supported by a panel including Dr. Robert H. Daines, assistant professor of business management; Dr. William G. Dyer, professor of sociology; Dr. Dean Rickenback, associate professor of business management; Dr. Robert J. Smith, professor of accounting; and Dr. Dale H. Taylor, associate professor of accounting.

The lectures and seminars were made possible by a gift to the University by Mr. and Mrs. Stratford. Stratford is managing partner in Touche, Ross, Bailey and Smart, national public accounting firm in Los Angeles. In 1957 he served as president of the Northern States Mission of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and he also has served as bishop of Westwood, Calif., ward.

Dr. Bedford received the Ph.D. degree from Ohio State University in 1950 and has taught at Ohio State University, Tulane University, and Washington University. He has served as executive secretary of the New Orleans Stock Exchange, as auditor of the State of Louisiana, and as a business consultant in the New Orleans Public Service and private firms.

WITH WANDERING AWE The Yoke's On Me

by Jaron Summers
Managing Editor

WHAT HAPPENED

The other day I ordered a yoke* at a drive-in and my date told me that I shouldn't drink such things. I told her "tough" and when the car hop brought the yoke, I seized it and to impress my date with the fact that she wasn't going to tell me what to do, I attempted to drink it as quickly as possible.

Unfortunately—due to poor timing—I spilt the yoke all over myself.

My date laughed all the way home and said that I was truly the greatest idiot she had ever seen. At her door, I tried to act as hurt as possible so she would feel sorry for me but she just said, "Hit the road, Jack."

So, to her I dedicate the following (slightly modified) memoirs of the date.

THE WAY I SEE IT

I was out with a somewhat homely girl the other day. We went to drive-in restaurant and she ordered a root beer. I ordered a yoke.

"You shouldn't drink yoke," said my date adjusting a brooch she was wearing. The brooch was in the form of a large golden question mark.

"I like yoke," I said.

"I don't think they would like it if you drank yoke. It has cafeteria in it and that's bad for your stomach," said the girl.

I gave her one of my super-special, soul-searching glances and asked, "I have two questions: One—who is they and; two—what do you mean cafeteria? I never heard of anything like cafeteria in yoke."

She seemed a trifle indignant. "They are the ones that know. And stop making fun of the way I pronounce things. I said caffeine—not cafeteria."

I gave her another soul-searching glance and when the car hop brought the root beer and yoke I grabbed the yoke and quaffed it down before you could say "Here's mud in your eye."

My date got quite mad. "You're doing that just to show me you do whatever you please aren't you."

I grinned at her.

"Someday," she predicted, "you'll be sorry. I remember when I was in high school—"

"Last year—?" I asked, smiling slightly, and beckoning the carhop to return.

"Very funny," said my date. "I happen to be a sophomore."

"Oh," I nodded innocently. "I should have said three years ago." By this time the car hop had returned and I ordered another yoke.

My date was simmering. "Are you suggesting that I've been going to university for three years and I'm still a sophomore?"

"Take it any way you want," I said, catching a glimpse of my soul-searching glance in the rear view mirror. I had to admit it looked pretty good. The car hop brought the second yoke which I drank slowly—savoring the taste.

My date looked down at her brooch. "As I was saying, when I was in high school our teacher got a tooth and—"

I wondered what happened to the front of your mouth," I quipped.

"—it was not my tooth. Our teacher left the tooth in yoke overnight and in the morning it was gone."

I smiled again. "Someone must have been pretty hard up for a tooth . . ."

"You idiot," she exploded, "the tooth dissolved. No one stole it."

I gave her another soul-searching glance. A little more nonchalant than the previous ones. "Do you think I'm the type who worries about a little acid in my food? Have you forgotten I'm a man?"

It suddenly dawned on her what a marvelous creature I was. Possibly she had never realized this before. She moved toward me and said, "I never realized what type of a man you were before. I want you."

I looked at her nonchalantly and smiled. "Woman," I said, "now that you realize what a rare catch I am it is too late. I suggest we go home."

We did. She tried to kiss me goodnight but I could not be bothered.

Wallace Campaigns

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Former Alabama Gov. George Wallace, claiming his bid for the presidency was gaining support, brought his "campaign" to Pittsburgh Thursday where he was picketed by civil rights groups and shunned by local politicians. Police provided heavy security.

Wallace, who flew in from Syracuse where he opened his northern swing, was the featured speaker at the annual dinner of the Amen Corner, an organization composed of businessmen and politicians.

But most of the speakers and honored guests backed away from the dinner under pressure of the NAACP and the United Negro Protest Committee.

An estimated 900 pickets, both Negro and White, ringed the Penn-Sheraton chanting, "hey, hey, whaddya say, Wallace must go."

They carried signs reading "Wallace no. 1 bigot" and "Mr. Racism go home."

At a news conference prior to the dinner, Wallace was peppered with questions from several Negro reporters on his stand on segregation. Asked if he were a racist, Wallace replied "no." He said that the question of segregated schools should be left to the discretion of local school boards.

He was asked three times if he personally favored segregated schools. "In Alabama," Wallace answered.

He said that if he ran for the presidency race would not be an issue.

He was asked if Gov. George Romney of Michigan would satisfy him as a presidential candidate. "I'm the only one that would satisfy me now," he said.

Y Students Enjoy Salzburg

by Carolyn Wilson
Universe Feature Writer

"With our American accents, cameras, tightly-clutched city maps, Pan-Am flight bags, and dazzled faces, no one would mark us as foreigners," quipped Janet Gardner. The junior coed from Chatham, New Jersey, is one of the BYU students studying abroad this semester.

Even though Reed Smoot, a sophomore from Provo, bought a European airlines flight bag as a disguise, it didn't help much. The American students are looked upon with great interest by the Austrians, according to Janet.

SEARCH SALZBURG

Between classes and studies, the students search Salzburg for "Erlebnissen" (experience), some go shopping, some "cathedraling" (their word for tip-toeing through the ancient and magnificent churches). "Most of us manage to get lost or at least confused," Janet remarked in her letter.

"Austria is full of art museums, 'someone-lived-here' houses, palaces, and buildings right out of the humanities books. History seems real here, and America, very young and far away," she added.

BASKETBALL ABROAD

The Cougars abroad have organized a basketball team which is entered in the Salzburg city league. Team members Dave Blunck, Don Eardley, Jim Ivins, Gerry Shupe, Sterling Tanner, and Keith Perry, who also doubles as coach, will play two games a week until the end of May.

Senior Barbara Pack from Laie, Oahu, Hawaii, reports that the game is essentially the same as basketball played in Provo, except there are no time-outs, other than after a foul, and a player has only five seconds for a free-throw.

Gerry Shupe, a Ukiah, Calif., senior, mentioned that the games are played in the Rodenberghall Turnhalle (gymnasium) which has "a room just big enough for the court. The spectators stand with their feet over the boundary. There is a piano in one corner and some mats in another, so we don't have quite a full court."

In spite of the cramped quarters, the Cougars won their first game against an Austrian team, Stv. John, 56 to 34.

Reed Smoot nears the summit, hanging from a 50-cent rope.

Four adventuresome BYU students congratulate themselves after scaling 13,000-foot Mt. Untersberg near Salzburg, but assure each other that next time they'll take the train. Front to back: David Blunck, Jim Ivins, Jerry Weyand, and Sterling Tanner.

Like the students in Grenoble, the Salzburg students spend hours on the ski slopes. However, an unusually mild winter in Austria this year has made skiing conditions far from ideal. "You have to go clear to the top in order to find snow that's not slushy," remarked ski enthusiast June Williams, sophomore from Burley, Idaho.

But mild weather conditions favor the hiking fans. Several groups of students have hiked into the "Sound of Music" hills above Salzburg with picnic lunches.

The most daring of the sportsmen recently scaled Untersberg, a 13,000 foot peak south of Salzburg.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS

The five climbers were Reed Smoot, Jerry Weyand, Dave Blunck, Jim Ivins, and Sterling Tanner.

Armed with coils of nylon rope, knit caps, nose warmers, spiked shoes, chocolate Easter eggs, and heavy clothing, they began their assault on the snow-covered peak. Roping themselves together, the climbers plodded through deepening snow as they approached the summit.

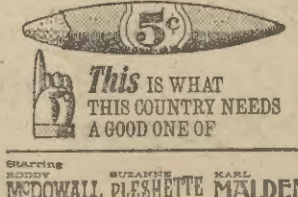

"I managed to fight my vertigo, until we had to hang by a 50-cent rope," Jerry recalled. "Thank goodness for the square knot," Sterling added.

The descent was much easier for the crew, and even a little fun as they slid down glaciers much of the way. The only mishaps reported were the loss of Sterling's left middle finger nail, Jerry's right shoe, and Reed's front tooth. At one instance, Jim took a dip into a ten-foot drift and emerged—with the help from the crew—looking like the abominable snowman.

He has served as instructor or administrator in Menan, Idaho, Brigham City, Kaysville, and Salt Lake City, Utah.

He was made director of the institute of religion at Reno, Nevada, and served for five years as a supervisor of the Church-wide seminary and institute program until his call in 1958 to become a member of the First Council of Seventy. Elders Hunter and Tuttle will officiate in the formation of two new campus stakes needed to accommodate the school's growth, bringing to eight the total number of BYU stakes.

'Elizabeth' Runs Another Week

"Elizabeth The Queen" continues its run this week at the Harris Fine Arts Center.

Maxwell Anderson has captured both the Queen and the woman who was England's greatest monarch, Elizabeth I. During the course of this poetic tragedy she is now tender and amorous, then cold and savage, here majestic and there ignoble.

FEARLESS

In contrast to her is the young man she loves—Lord Essex, a brilliant, handsome, expedient and royal courtier, not afraid to speak in eloquent defiance of his friends and enemies—Francis Bacon, Robert Cecil, and Walter Raleigh.

Dorothy Behling and Linda Hansen portray Elizabeth on alternate nights opposite J. V. Williams as Essex.

Dr. Harold I. Hansen has directed a production which reviewers have called both heroic and intelligent. Costumes by Miss Beverly Warner have captured the essence of the Elizabethan era—fanciful and ambitious extravagance.

TICKET EXCHANGE

Tickets are free with activity cards or $1.50 without. The Harris Fine Arts Center Box Office is open daily from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

THOSE STUDENTS WHO HAVE TICKETS TO ELIZABETH THE QUEEN FOR MAY 3 MAY RETURN THEM TO THE BOX OFFICE FOR AN EXCHANGE. THE PLAY WILL NOT BE PERFORMED ON MAY 3.

Alumni-Varsity Game ...

Bukich Gets Coaching Spot

Coach for the alumni in the annual BYU Alumni-Varsity football game is Rudy Bukich, quarterback for the NFL Chicago Bears. Bukich has played professional football for 12 years and was chosen top passer in the NFL in 1965.

Rudy Bukich, star quarterback for the Chicago Bears football team, has been selected as alumni coach for the annual BYU Alumni-Varsity football game to be held May 13.

The 12-year National Football League veteran has been a quarterback with the Bears for the last seven years and was selected the number one passer in the NFL in 1965.

Originally from St. Louis, Mo., Bukich played his college ball at the University of Southern California. He was quarterback of the 1952 USC team that won the Pacific Coast Conference championship and was voted the number one college team in the nation.

BOWL HERO

On New Year's Day 1953 Bukich's USC team won the Rose Bowl game over Wisconsin 7-0 with Rudy throwing the winning touchdown pass and receiving the player of the game award.

In 1956-57 Bukich enrolled at Brigham Young University and received his B.S. degree in Speech. That same year he helped coach the spring Blue and White intersquad game at BYU.

During his off season periods for the past seven years, Rudy has taught high school in California. During the summer he has worked toward the completion of the requirements for the M.A. degree in Educational Administration at BYU which he anticipates receiving this year.

ANDERSON ASSISTS

Assisting Bukich as line coach will be former BYU grid star Larry Anderson. Anderson has been playing pro ball in Canada for the past several seasons.

The purpose of the annual spring grid clash is to raise money for BYU athletics. Two other reasons are that it gives fans a look at the team and an indication of what to expect in the fall, and gives former BYU athletes a chance to suit up and remember their days when they played for the Blue and White.

Cougar Tracksters In Mt. SAC Relays

by John Apgar
Universe Sportswriter

Brigham Young University's highly-touted track and field team will attempt to take one more step up the ladder of national prestige this weekend when the Cougars journey to Walnut, Calif., to participate in the Mt. San Antonio College Relays.

Assistant Coach Sherald James will lead the 21-member squad on the trip while head coach Clarence Robison stays behind to witness the annual BYU Invitational spectacular.

The "Mt. SAC" Relays will involve athletes from prep schools, junior colleges and track clubs, as well as some of the top university competition in the nation.

No team score will be totaled since the purpose of the meet is to stress individual performance.

BUSY CAT

Dave Reeves will be the busiest Cougar performer. The senior sprinter will enter the 100-meter dash, sprint medley, mile relay, and 440 relay.

Strongman Ken Patra will participate in three events which include the shot put, discus, and hammer throw.

Tim Danielson, last year's high school athlete of the year, will compete in the mile run. The freshman speedster thrilled last week's crowd in the Cougar Stadium when he sprinted to victories in the mile and two-mile.

BEST FROSH

Danielson, Bonin is competing on the NCAA level this year and has come up with the best high hurdle time in the nation for freshman.

Bob Richards, defending NCAA steeplechase champion, will also compete in the mile while Ron Stjern and Dan Clark are set to go in the 5,000 and 10,000 meters respectively.

Bob Hennahan, who came up with his best long jump of the season last week, will make the trip along with number-one man Pertti Pousi who has recovered from a minor ailment that sidelined him last week.

Dragan Anjelkevic and Ed Hanks will continue their personal duel in the high jump as both are expected to place in that event.

Next weekend BYU will return to Cougarville for the Beehive Invitational.

Tomorrow Utah State comes to Provo for a double-header starting at 12 p.m. The Aggies are 5-9 for the year, but have been coming on strong in recent games.

First baseman Tom Robson leads the Farmers in hitting with a .380 average. Gary Frohlich and Doug Manning are also hitting over the .300 mark, and could be a threat to BYU pitching.

Expected to start for BYU in tomorrow's twin bill are Bob Foderaro (5-3) and Duane Gustafson (4-0). Utah State will probably go with Jim Price, Tom Culligan (2-3), or Doug Rollins (2-2).

Monday Wyoming will come to the Cougar diamond for a three-game Western Athletic Conference series.
